

The Hercules Inn brings to life that daydream of delicious countryside dining that we've all had, with a decidedly modern touch bringing style and flair to Sutton Cheney. Open fireplaces and hardwood floors create a charming ambience, yet the stylish fixtures, modern sculptures and contemporary English menus place the whole atmosphere firmly in the 21st Century.

Tucked away down a quiet country lane, The Hercules is set within tranquil surroundings and beautiful views. The courteous staff will attend to you at your table as you choose from the carefully prepared ever changing menu, created with the inimitable style and skill of head chef Luke Finne. The menu also features a list of suppliers, all of them local, so you can find out with confidence exactly where your food has come from.

To kick off the evening, the deli boards are an excellent choice, providing the chance to try a little of everything. Main meals include sea bream with king prawn veloute, spinach, saffron and lemon fondant potato, or local rare-breed pan roast lamb royal, served with colcannon, minted broad beans and jus. You simply have to save room for dessert at The Hercules. The treats on offer include pannacotta and sherry trifle with almond tuilles and a cherry plum jalousie, served with homemade vanilla and white-chocolate ice cream.

With its superb presentation, beautifully relaxed atmosphere and excellent chef working away in the kitchen, The Hercules offers a truly decadent dining experience – one that you'll want to revisit again and again.
